DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claims 4-6 are objected to because of the following informalities: The first letter of the first word of each claim should be capitalized. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

1. Claims 3-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The metes and bounds of the claim are unclear between claims 3-5 since each is an independent claim to a sauce of the same composition with a different title as to the type of sauce, however the titles of the sauces overlap in meaning and therefore it is unclear how the claims differ from each other. Claim 4 recites a "creamy type" sauce, which would encompass both cheese sauce (claim 3) and alfredo sauce (claim 5). Claim 3 recited a "cheese" sauce, which would be encompassed by a creamy sauce (claim 4) and encompasses an alfredo sauce (claim 5) since traditional alfredo sauce contains parmesan cheese. Claim 5 recites an "alfredo" sauce, which would be encompassed by a creamy sauce (claim 4) and encompassed by a cheese sauce (claim 3). The overlap of the claims makes the claims indefinite as to the scope of the claimed invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

1. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by McGinley, US patent number 5 192 569.

McGinley discloses food products containing an aqueous dispersion comprised of a dietary fiber gel, water and lipid. McGinley discloses the use of microcrystalline cellulose (see Column 4, lines 15-16), which is a source of dietary fiber and is a gel in water (see Column 3, lines 39-50), therefore is a dietary fiber gel. McGinley discloses the use of a lipid with the dietary fiber gel (see Column 6, lines 45-68). McGinley discloses adding the dietary fiber and lipid to water to form an aqueous dispersion (see Column 7, lines 59-63) and then adding that aqueous dispersion to a food product as a fat replacement (see Column 1, lines 25-30 and 36-37). The aqueous dispersion as disclosed by McGinley comprises a dietary fiber gel, water and lipid; thus, it is the same as the emulsified liquid shortening composition, even though such term is not used in the reference. McGinley discloses that the solids contained within the dietary fiber gel represent 1-50% by weight of the overall food formulation (see Column 8, lines 5-20), which encompasses weight percents in the range as instantly claimed. McGinley teaches the use of the mixture of dietary fiber gel, water and lipid in dry or dispersed form in various foodstuffs including sauces and other water based foods (see Column 7, lines 1-2 and lines 57-68 and see Column 8, lines 21-25). The Office interprets the reference to inherently disclose sauces with the different flavors as claimed (cheese and alfredo), to inherently disclose creamy sauces, gravies as well as disclose sauce mixes; since cheese, alfredo, gravy and creamy are all types of sauces and are all water based foods, and since the reference discloses the use of the mixture in dry or dispersed form which encompasses a sauce mix and a reconstituted sauce.

Art Unit: 1761

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

1. Claims 1-10 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-2 of copending Application No. 10/689274. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both claim the same emulsified liquid shortening composition in similar type food products that are not patentably distinct, in that sauces and soups are both water based foods, that can have different flavors and that can be in dried or reconstituted format and both applications claim overlapping weight percentages that the emulsified liquid shortening is present in the foodstuffs.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

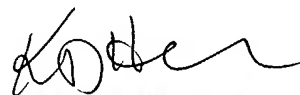

Baer et al, US patent number 5 011 701 discloses an aqueous dispersion comprising dietary fiber gel, water and lipid.
